Central High School Student Brings Handgun to School

King and Queen County Public Schools want our school community to know that a threat was averted today without incident. A student who had recently transferred to Central High School was reported by other students to be bragging about having a gun. Based on those reports, the School Resource Officer searched the student, and took possession of a handgun. The student was arrested and taken into custody.

We are grateful for the wisdom and prompt action of our students, and the courage and professionalism of our School Resource Officer. Together, they kept our student body and staff safe, and neutralized a serious threat without undue disruption. Any further statements will come from law enforcement. The school district cannot comment further because of student privacy laws."

Pictures by Gene Campbell

Hamilton-Holmes Middle School invited the community to a dedication ceremony of the new cafetorium in memory of Charlotte Taylor on Tuesday, February 18th. In honor of her 44 years of dedication and love for the community, King William County School Board named the new Hamilton – Holmes cafetorium the Charlotte P. Taylor Cafetorium. A cafetorium is a large room that can be used as a cafeteria and an auditorium. It has large windows on two sides and will seat about 200 students each for the three lunch shifts.

Principal Tina Rudd was the Master of Ceremonies and introduced Dr. David White, Superintendent, who presented a plaque to be placed in the cafetorium. Robin Davis, one of the Committee that planned this event, thanked Dr. White for the plaque, and a video montage by Audrey Mitchell of the students and faculty expressing their love and get well wishes to Charlotte. The Art Classes made painted rocks with Charlotte's motto of "kindness rocks" that guests could take home as a remembrance.

King William School Board Holds Open Forum for Football Coach

Student Jake Galgano speaks to the School Board

Story by Florence Cooke
Pictures by Gene Campbell

There was standing room only at the February School Board Meeting held at Hamilton Holmes Middle School on Tuesday, February 18, at 6 p.m. Parents, coaches, students – both present and past – were given 30 minutes to persuade the school board members to reverse their decision to fire coach Dylan DeHart as Head Coach.

DeHart was not present as the community praised him as a caring coach with his students over the seven years he was the head coach. He had led the football program to several regional championships. One father stated when his son started playing football, he knew nothing about the sport. DeHart worked with him over the years and now the son has 30 colleges offering him scholarships to play college football as a result of Mr. DeHart.

Publisher's Message

The weather is becoming more favorable. Longer and warmer days are not far away. I have a lot of leaves and sticks to pick up from the cold windy days we've had. I wanted beautiful large shade trees knowing the getting up of leaves and sticks come with it. I feel better when I can get outside and do some needed yard work. Cabin fever is turning slowly into spring. Get outside and get some fresh air, you will feel so much better.

Take care until next time.

A Close Shave

By Allen Brintley and "Pip"

I used to always enjoy stopping in Aylett Barber Shop and talking horses with the owner Bill Crowe. He and his wife also run Wingmont Stables and Kennels. I remember talking about horse related things a while back as I was getting a haircut. Somehow we got to discussing gadgets. People have come up with things over time to help in training or grooming. He mentioned a martingale. Well I thought to myself "That sounds like some kind of bird." Then Mr. Crowe started talking about the difference in a standing martingale and a running martingale. My mind started wandering off. I thought we were discussing horses but maybe this martingale bird can't fly and either runs along the ground or just stands still and hides. I just sat there and listened and found out that a martingale is some sort of tie down to help in getting the horse to carry his head in the proper position while riding. The standard one is a strap that goes from his head to his chest and doesn't allow him to raise his head too high and a running one has rings that attach it to the reins so you can put pressure as needed to get the horse to lower his head.

Mr. Crowe has come up with some gadgets over the years to help at the barber shop also. There was an old man that came in to get a shave but his face was so wrinkled that he told Mr.

Crowe to just do the best he could. Mr. Crowe reached around and handed the old man a small wooden ball and told him to put it in his mouth and push it against his cheek with his tongue. Well all the wrinkles on that side disappeared and Mr. Crowe shaved him and then told him to move it to the other cheek and push with his tongue. The old man did and got shaved on that side of his face. When Mr. Crowe was finished he held his hand out and the old man spit the ball out. The old man was so happy because it had been years since he had gotten such a close shave. He did have one question before leaving. He said "Bill, what would have happened if I had swallowed that ball?" Mr. Crowe replied "That would have been alright. You could have just brought it back tomorrow like everyone else has."

You can call me at 690-7870 or email me at Allen@twiniversreality.com. I'll see you on the trails.

King William Woman Waiting for New Liver

In July 2019 Sheryl Ruzi Rieling lost half of her blood supply in the living room. She already had liver problems. She went to a specialist at the Virginia Liver Institute at St. Mary's Hospital and was told she needed a liver transplant.

Her 23-year-old daughter Rebecca (Becca) offered her liver – about 40% was needed for a transplant. The liver is the only organ in the body that will regenerate itself in six weeks. If Becca was not a match, Sheryl's 25-year-old son Daniel has offered to share his liver.

In order to qualify for a transplant, she had to apply to the North American Transplant waiting list. To qualify, her MELD score had to be at least 20 for the insurance to cover. She received a letter stating that she had been placed on the liver waiting list.

Since Becca is a living donor, the operation will be done at UVA as opposed to VCU Medical Center who does only cadaver transplants. The transplant was scheduled for December, then February and now April. Becca will be in the hospital for one week while Sheryl's hospital stay will be one to two weeks.

Daughter Becca says, "We have received prescription assistance from Bausch Labs for Xifaxan, an experimental drug being used to prevent ammonia poisoning. Our family appreciates this very much since the medicine is very, very expensive. The company expedited the paperwork and the medicine was received in a very short period of time."

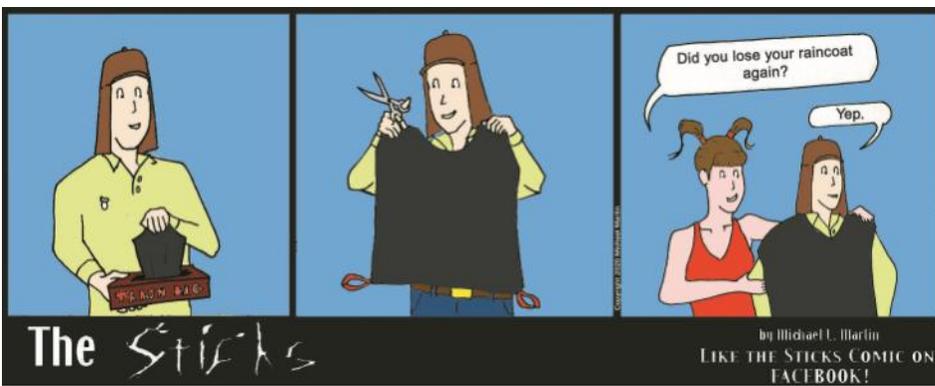

For Sheryl, Becca, Daniel and her husband, this has been a long ordeal. Sheryl stated, "At the present time, I feel like a clock running down – I am very weak and trembly, and I go days crying. The reason I stick it out is I made a promise to Becca and my best friend Candace that I will fight hard to beat this. When I get back to being myself, I want to go back to school and specialize in end of life care and counseling (social work). My aim is to be with elderly people and help them live and die with dignity.

Sheryl has been well known in the community because she has worked in fire and EMS. She has worked with most of the local fire and rescue departments doing ALS training (getting free books and training for some of the classes), running calls day and night for seven years, and wrote for grants for EMS equipment. Sheryl states, "I loved helping my community as long as I could and still miss it."

Letters to the Editor, continued

Dear Editor,

Once upon A time there was no King William Rescue Squad

King William Rescue Squad was founded in 1963. About a dozen citizens were present at the first meeting held in the old King William school where Miss Davis once taught the third grade. Jim Hensley was our first leader. Our first ambulance was a gift from B. W. White Funeral Service: a black hearse. It had been sold to him by Gloria Taylor from her dealership on Rt. 30. We then began our official training which included the substance & direction to treat three things: artificial respiration, bleeding problems and poisoning treatments- and how to use the siren. With our newly purchased white coveralls, we were in business.

Our assembly point was Richard Lee Eubank's EXXON station in Aylett. The men(only) that lived closer to Aylett usually got the first call. There was lots of enthusiasm, no lack of volunteers. As part of our very basic training, we travelled to New Kent to watch a film about a horrendous car wreck, including plenty of blood! Well into the movie, one of the guys fainted and fell out on the floor. First aid was given. As a result he could no longer drive nor treat a patient- the good news, he was promoted to be our first instructor.

We finally obtained another vehicle. We had worn out the hearse. Within a few weeks it came time to change the oil. Our ambulance was dropped off for this, but in finishing up, the mechanic failed to tightened the drain plug. So, a few miles of driving with no oil caused us to lose our only ambulance. The enthusiastic male squad continued on its mission. Many of our local volunteers retired or took jobs in Richmond. The rest of the story is KWRS is now equipped with better vehicles and well trained, paid technicians. Amazing things can happen from meager beginnings where we were little more than transportation service but an important part of our area's history. We all enjoyed being part of the team and YES, I was the one who fainted and became the first instructor.

Founding Members: Robert Stone Abrams, William R. Barber, Sr., Richard Lee Eubank, Latane FauntLeRoy, Claybrook Gibson, James Hensley, Walter Jackson, Clayton Lumpkin, David Pearson, Morgan Prince, Robert Query, Campbell Schools, William Guy Townsend and Herbert White.

Dear Editor,

Tip of the iceberg

Sincere compliments to KW County's Administrator and her staffers for efforts at providing transparency in the workings of county government. The official website, kingwilliamcounty.us, has a tremendous amount of information that is readily accessible to anyone who will take the time to have a look around.

Special compliments to Olivia Lawrence, Executive Assistant, for her wizard-like technical expertise and diligence in posting up-to-date info on activities of the Board of Supervisors, including meeting Agendas and then transcribed Minutes.

Because she has spearheaded the initiative of video recording BoS meetings and promptly posting them on YouTube, there is no excuse for residents not knowing what -- at least on the surface -- is being done by our elected representatives.

However, what's seen in the videos is only the tip of the metaphorical "iceberg" where most of it is hidden deep underwater.

How, one might ask, can the merely hour and a half BoS meeting on February 24th adequately cover detailed information in the official Agenda packet's 325 pages?

One obvious answer is that the vast majority of what the Board is considering and voting on is unseen by the public -- even by those who take the extraordinary amount of time necessary to dig deeply into county web postings.

Now, the three budget-busting holdovers have been joined by two new Supervisors who claimed in their campaigns to be honest public servants and good stewards of our tax dollars.

How does this square with the UNANIMOUS vote on February 2th to approve the latest steps toward building the environmentally and financially shaky Sweet Sue solar farm?

Sincerely, Robert "Sarge" Bruce
3rd District (Aylett)

Dear Editor,

Self-Serving or Selfless?

When Ed Moren ran for supervisor, he chose not to speak about or define his position for property tax rates after re-assessment; instead he used terms such as "exploring". So it should be no surprise that the King William budget "wish list" (see link at: <https://kingwilliamcounty.us/wp-content/uploads/2020/02/Budget-Requests.pdf?fbclid=IwAR1HemxcgTDAYCmccrGelkPVjDSLud6QzXk7s5ZPhi71OqlvyfDMfeAtFkY>) is financially larger than the any "wish book" published by Sears.

Regarding the question of self-serving or selfless, consider these facts.

On 8/22/19 and 10/26/19, candidate Moren and his spouse attended privately catered events (i.e. gifts) by 2 different organizations in King William (self serving).

On 1/14/20, Mr. Moren filed a Conflict of Interest Form but made no mention of "gifts" received.

On 11/8/16, Mr. Moren signed a land use affidavit for 9.40 acres. Subsequently and most recently on 10/25/19 -- Mr. Moren signed a land use affidavit for 7.71 acres. However, he has incorrectly continued to receive a higher (9.4 acres) land use tax credit for several years.

As the land owner, he should have been aware of this change and the fact he was NOT paying a higher tax associated with less land use tax exemption. Perhaps he was aware but didn't care? (self serving).

After 4 years of declining personal property taxes, I'm anxiously waiting Supervisor Moren to live up to the late campaign promise by his Political Action Committee to lower taxes....But, how can he find budget cuts or a way to lower taxes when he isn't even attentive to his own application for land use exemption?

The selfless thing to do NOW would be to make restitution to King William by paying this tax for which he was errantly exempted by the Commissioner of Revenue.

At almost 3 months into the term, I don't see selfless (but self serving).

Taylor, continued from front page

The commendation presented to Charlotte's family by Dr. White read in part: Whereas, Charlotte P. Taylor was a valued employee of King William County Public Schools who left a legacy of love and service to everyone who knew her, and served as a bus driver for 30 years as well as an instructional aid for 44 years; came to work every day with a positive attitude, no matter what she was dealing with in her personal life; taught three generations of students in King William County Schools, instilling values of hard work, determination, self-worth, and community – connectedness in each of them; kept reaching, kept trying, and kept challenging her students in order to help them improve; had a heart for the community and she faithfully served King William through her family, her church, her business, and her students; and dedicated her time and energy every day in the King William County community to make it a better place.

Charlotte's family stated, "On behalf of the family, we would like to thank each and every one of you for coming today to honor our mother, Charlotte Taylor. She deeply loved King William County and the people that live here. This is where her life began and staying true to her roots, she made a home for her own family. Our mother wasn't materialistic and did not value fancy clothes or fancy cars instead she owned an old red truck. However, she measured her wealth in relationships with others. Her compassion and love for this community allowed her to develop true and lasting friendships. Whether you were a student at HHMS being told "you can do this" or a customer at Kent's Store having her fix you a bologna sandwich, she found joy in supporting and helping others. She believed in people and recognized their strengths and encouraged them to believe in themselves. My mother would be truly humbled by this amazing tribute. She never sought recognition or accolades because she knew in the end, her reward with her Heavenly Father would be greater. Thank you so much to the School Board, Dr. White, Hamilton Holmes staff, the people of King William County and to the many students that touched her life. Thank you for loving our mother as much as we loved her."

Parent Melanie Jarratt speaks to the School Board

Students talked about the helpfulness, kindness, and patience shown to them while they were on the team. One woman stated there had been a petition on social media that had over 1,200 signatures as of the school board meeting asking the board to reverse their decision.

One of the most forceful speakers defending DeHart was Howard Hill, Assistant Coach, and Agriculture Teacher, who got a standing ovation after speaking. He talked about DeHart as a personal friend and co-worker for ten years. He stated, "If Dylan DeHart is not good enough to coach King William High School as head football coach, then Howard Hill isn't good enough to be your assistant coach, then he is not good enough to teach your children."

Lindsay Robinson, chairman, stated, "No comment can be made at this time because this is a personnel matter. I applaud you all for standing up for what you believe in and I want to assure you that the football program will continue. The School Board will take all public comments made into consideration."
