Play Ball – Cavaliers Set Their Sights on State Titles

Cavalier girls and boys teams head to VHSL Class 2 State Tournament in Salem

By Gene Campbell

As I watched the King William Cavalier boys' baseball and girls' softball depart from King William High School on Friday, headed for Salem, my heart swelled with pride. How many high schools, locally or statewide, can boast both their boys' and girls' teams competing for state titles? Not many, I'd say.

Remembering Ann Garner

Ann Garner

By Gene Campbell

We encounter individuals who leave a lasting impression throughout our lives, inspiring us with genuine kindness and compassion. Ann Garner was one such person. Throughout her life, I never heard a single negative word spoken about her. Ann recently passed away, leaving behind a legacy defined by her unwavering commitment to helping others.

During her 32 plus years at King William High School, Ann was more than just the secretary and attendance coordinator; she was a guiding light for students navigating the challenges of adolescence. With her open-door policy and heartfelt advice, she profoundly impacted the lives of many, nurturing their academic and personal growth.

Publisher’s Message

I hope all the fathers had a blessed Father's Day. It's not always easy being a father. We make mistakes, sometimes don't listen to our children and other times we are not there when we should have been. Love and understanding is so important. I am blessed with three beautiful daughters, one is with the Lord. The other two have given me seven grandchildren that make my heart happy whenever I'm with them. I try to keep the communication open and let them know I have a love for them nothing could ever change.

Take care until next time.

Hot and Humid

By Allen Brintley and "Pip"

The weather lately has been pretty hot. With the temperatures and humidity in the 90's, Pip and I both can just stand in the shade and sweat. I guess it's just that time of year for it. It does create some things to be aware of. It's easy for your animal to get overheated. Make sure they have plenty of fresh water and a shady spot or a cover from the sun. Also, trying to get fly spray to stay on Pip and not get washed off by sweat or occasional rain. I did see some fly spray that says it is sweat and water-resistant. It reminds me of that hairspray women use called water-net or aqua-net or something. You know that kind that keeps their hair in place even in a hurricane. My Granddad use to tell me to be careful about getting something that soap and water won't wash off. I'll have to check into that new fly spray a little closer and may give it a try.

There was a little old lady that heard a noise out front of her house one hot summer day. She looked out the front door to see a young boy had run a hay wagon in the ditch and turned it over in her front yard. It was so hot, she called to him and said "Young man, take a break and come get something cool to drink." The little boy said "Thanks just the same, but I need to get this hay wagon upright or my Pa is going to be upset." She said "Nonsense. It's so hot outside, your Pa won't be upset if you take a few minutes and rest in the shade." The little boy said "Yes ma'am he will. My Pa will be very upset if I don't hurry and get this hay wagon back upright." The little old lady said "I don't understand. Where is your Pa?" The little boy said "Under the wagon!"

You can email me at Allen@TwinRiversRealty.com or call 690-7870. I'll see you on the trails.

Supervisors Hear Requests For More Funding

Lt. Marsden Dyson addresses the Board

By Gene Campbell
At the June 9th meeting of the King William County Board of Supervisors, Lt. Marsden Dyson of the Sheriff's Department requested additional funding for the FY 2025-26 budget to hire a new IT Network Engineer to assist with police operations. Lt. Dyson also sought amendments for increased overtime funding for patrol and dispatch, and an amendment to the Capital Improvement Project for two additional patrol vehicles. Supervisor Hodges, Robinson, and Catlett raised concerns stating that the budget was just approved last month, and requests are already being made to increase it. Confusion arose regarding Lt. Dyson's request for an extra $25,000 patrol overtime. Cathy Stevens, with the Finance Department, clarified that the FY 2025-26 budget already had $75,000 in overtime for patrol, which includes the $25,000. The supervisors decided to table this request (Resolution 25-24), passed the funding for an IT Network Engineer (Resolution 25-23) with Supervisor Hodges casting the dissenting vote, and tabled the request for two additional vehicles (Resolution 25-26). Supervisors also approved Resolution 25-22 to allocate $24,591 to match a Virginia Department of Emergency Management 911 Grant. Circuit Court Clerk Tina Glazebrook's request for a part-time position in her office was also approved. The entry-level position is set to start in January and may transition to full-time. Assistant Emergency Manager Andrew Terry presented the County's All-Hazards Mitigation Plan, informing the board that a public survey regarding potential summer hazards would be available. The plan received unanimous approval. Fire and EMS Chief Ron Brown requested the renewal of the position of EMS Captain in the upcoming FY 2025-26 budget, which led to a discussion about the associated costs. The supervisors ultimately voted 4-1 to extend the position into the FY 2023-26 budget, with Supervisor Hodges dissenting. County Administrator Stacey Davenport updated the board on the transition of county libraries into independent status, noting that both branches (West Point and Central Garage) will close on Saturday, June 21st. The following week (June 23rd through June 27th) will be a transition week. Davenport could not provide any further details as the Pamunkey Regional Library system had not provided her with any details. Please see BOS, continued on page 10.

"She never knew a stranger," one student said. "She was our second mom."

Ann's dedication to the school was unmatched. Whether cheering on students from the sidelines at sporting events (she rarely missed one), or attending graduation ceremonies, she was a constant presence who celebrated every achievement with pride and joy. Her contagious enthusiasm inspired students to strive for greatness on and off the field. In recognition of her commitment, the school gave her a lifetime pass to all school events upon her retirement.

Beyond her professional endeavors, Ann was deeply involved with local churches and organizations, including the American Cancer Society. A cancer survivor herself, she battled against the illness and showcased her resilience, inspiring many in the community. She was a dedicated participant at the Annual Relay for Life, always smiling and encouraging others to "never give up!" Furthermore, her volunteer work at the local hospital provided vital support to patients and families during their challenging times. When my father was hospitalized, Ann was there every day, reminiscing about the "old times" with her and her husband, Clarence, encouraging him to "hang in there." She truly embodied the spirit of community service, and her warmth made everyone feel at ease. Every Wednesday morning, she was a familiar face at the coffee shop, affectionately known as BoTown (Bojangles), where she gathered with friends, always radiating cheerfulness.

In recognition of her extraordinary contributions to the community, the King William Ruritan Club honored Ann with a special plaque in 2021, which read, "For her caring spirit, unwavering volunteerism, second mom to many, and unselfish contributions to her community and friends, she is an inspiration to us all."

As the King William community processes the loss of such an exceptional individual, Ann Garner's spirit will continue to live on in the hearts of all fortunate enough to know her. Special people like Ann come around only once in a lifetime, and her legacy of love, support, and inspiration will guide us as we remember her remarkable life.

Ann, "Well done, good and faithful servant!"

Virginia-grown Berries Signify Sweet Start to Summer

Contributed by Farm Bureau

How agreeable of Mother Nature to provide the conditions Virginia farmers needed to grow a signature summer crop.

Berries were cultivated on almost 900 farms on 1,119 acres in Virginia, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture Census data from 2022. Blueberries are the most widely grown berry, followed by blackberries, strawberries, raspberries and elderberries.

A “fantastic crop” of Natchez and Ponca blackberries are growing on 2 acres of trellis at Henley Farms in Pungo.

“They are pretty much the best we’ve ever had,” said Barbara Henley, who operates the pick-your-own produce farm with her husband, G.W. “The Ponca is a round berry and the Natchez is more elongated, and each has a slightly different taste. Poncas are sweet and Natchez are more tart. Both crops are beautiful and in top production!”

The farm is open to pickers and produce shoppers daily from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

“We are wide open for picking the next 3 to 4 weeks,” Henley said. “Our varieties are thornless, which makes for good picking. And because they grow on trellises, you don’t have to get down in the dirt.”

Pungo is known for a balmy microclimate that brings out the best in Virginia berries.

“Whatever weather we’ve recently had is exactly what they like!” Henley exclaimed.

Blueberries are weather-sensitive as well, thriving in high temperatures with periodic rain showers, noted Amy Drewry, who operates Drewry Farms Blueberries with her husband, Michael, in Surry County.

“We had beautiful rain this spring, and the crop is looking great!” she said. “They’re nice, full berries and I think it will be a fabulous season—the best we’ve had in years.”

The quantity of this season’s blueberries tracks with the quality.

“Our intense pruning this year seems to be paying off,” Drewry continued. “The bushes are covered in berries.”

The farm grows mostly Rabbiteye blueberries, a southeastern native species tolerant of heat and drought.

Drewry Farms Blueberries season has “two peaks.” After mid-June’s berries ripen, a bumper crop follows in July, extending the pick-your-own season for their diverse customer base.

Families often spend a couple hours together picking through the patch, Drewry said. And some return throughout the summer and pick more to freeze for wintertime enjoyment.

“Tickle the berries and they just fall into your basket,” Drewry said. “Plus, you don’t have to bend over to pick them. You’re at eye level with blueberries. We grow enough for the bears and other animals, and plenty for people too, of course!”

Visit the Virginia Grown website to find summer berries and pick-your-own farms near you.

Wal-Mart Gives Back to Community

Contributed by CornerStone
Walmart #1730 made a $5,000 donation to 'The CornerStone Community Development Center' (CCDC) in Aylett to assist with providing basic needs like hygiene items and laundry detergent to families in need.

For twenty five years now the CCDC has regularly provided free food, and clothing to those in need, and health care to uninsured and underserved residents primarily from King William, King and Queen, Essex and Richmond counties.

Additionally, projects such as 'Back to School', 'UnderCover' (providing new under clothing) and 'Turkeys at Thanksgiving' assist families. The Marine Corps Toys for Tots approves an LCO each year and thus for the past six years the 'Aylett Toys for Tots' has distributed toys at Christmas to thousands of children from several counties.

One Christmas, a couple of years back a 'Diaper Bank' for babies was started in response to expressed needs of young mothers.

The CornerStone Community Development Center greatly appreciates that Walmart generously gives back to the community. This is not their first time of giving. Store #1730 provides thousands of dollars every year towards food programs to benefit neighbors.

The CornerStone Community Development Center is an all volunteer organization. Monetary donations to The CornerStone Community Development Center are tax exempt. Checks can be mailed to P.O. Box 68, Aylett, VA 23009.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

As most of us know, all is not well in D.C. We should all be concerned because the current Administration is challenging the rule of law. It is intimidating our universities, the media and anyone who doesn't agree with them, thus threatening freedom of speech which is the very foundation of our democracy. This Administration is menacing our safety by threatening to invade our allies and carelessly endangering our national security. It has recently appointed a 22 year old with no national security experience to head the Department of Homeland Security's main center for preventing terrorism. Our country is descending into tyranny, incompetence and chaos.

The Administration is currently pushing a huge bill through Congress to fund its agenda. The bill would slash federal support for: childcare, education, health care, health research, food assistance, housing assistance, community development, the elderly and foreign aid. Cutting funding for programs that benefit ordinary Americans would help fund massive tax cuts for corporations and the very wealthy. These tax breaks for the rich would contribute $3.8 trillion to our national debt according to the Congressional Budget Office and that will negatively affect the economy for us all.

What can we do as citizens? We need to educate ourselves on the issues and the candidates. That involves getting our information from multiple sources, not just one. Get informed, then vote.

Ignorance and indifference are the enemies of democracy. As we are seeing, elections have consequences. Educate yourself and think carefully about how your choice will affect your family, your community and your country. Then vote in this fall's state and local elections and in next year's Congressional elections.

Kitty Cox
King William

Dear Editor,

In a recent article in The Atlantic, a title of an opinion piece was "Sometimes a Parade is Just a Parade?" But, is it really? June 14 is the 250th Anniversary of the Army which should be celebrated. Should it be combined with the President's birthday which is also that day? I don't think so as we know this is more of a show for Trump than celebrating the Anniversary of the Army. Trump has finally gotten his parade. 7,000 troops to march through the streets of Washington, D.C. Helicopters buzzing overhead and tanks rolling down Constitution Avenue destroying the asphalt. All of this at a mere cost of $45 million. "Peanuts" according to Trump. Taxpayers are bearing the cost of this "parade," as Trump withholds tens of millions of dollars allocated for research grants, such as cancer. Even more egregious is the number of federal programs that have been cut that stand to help many Americans – certainly more than a military parade. $45 million could help our Veterans who depend on SNAP and Medicaid. As one veteran said, "he fired those who served. Then threw a parade for himself." On June 14, Flag Day, wave a flag for our soldiers in uniform or thank a veteran for his or her service. More importantly, donate to "Buy A Vet A Meal" founded by retired Army Colonel Herb Jones after funding for food was cut. The mission is to "feed, educate and bring gratitude and community back to veterans." (buyavetameal.org) Your donation will be more meaningful and satisfying than sending a birthday card to the White House.

A New Hope Spot for the Chesapeake Bay!

Press Release

Indian Neck, - The Tribe is thrilled to share an exciting collaboration between Mission Blue, The Explorers Club, the Paul Sarbanes Coastal Ecology Center at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, and the Rappahannock Tribe.

The Tribe had lots to celebrate last week, including Stephen Tomasetti, Director of the Sarbanes Coastal Ecology Center, announcing his partnership with the Tribe and our work to restore oysters in the Rappahannock River.

Additionally, the Chesapeake Bay Hope Spot announcement took place during the Ocean Week celebration, where the monumental progress of the Bay and the importance of Indigenous Ecological Knowledge were amplified.

Hope Spots are recognized for their astounding ecological, cultural, and historical value. The Chesapeake Bay's biodiversity and deep-rooted Indigenous Heritage have been huge in the watersheds' restoration journey.

Chief Anne was delighted to represent the Tribe and join the historical celebration to embed Indigenous Knowledge and redirect Tribal Sovereignty in the revision of the Chesapeake Bay Watershed Agreement.

Chief Anne also shared the vision of Indigenous Guardians, founded by the Indigenous Conservation Council, at the Ocean Week celebration that brought Hope Spot champions together from around the world, sharing the stage with Dr. Sylvia Earle (Her Deepness).

Sunshine Gumms (Shinnecock), Chief Anne Richardson, and Marguerite Smith (Shinnecock)

This event would not have been possible without the extraordinary Mission Blue organization. Kate Killerlain Morrison, Laura Dahlbeck Cassiani, and Shannon McIntyre Rake were able to bring Hope Spot teams together from all over the world. The Tribe is ready to roll up our sleeves and get busy on this wonderful collaboration with our Hope Spot Champions to demonstrate the power of Indigenous-led conservation.

Extended thanks to the many individuals who devoted time and hard work to get us here, including the incomparable Constance Difede, bridge construction extraordinaire Ellen Pikitch whose partnerships with Shinnecock Indian Nation and Sunshine Gumms, assisted in bringing us together. Additionally, we would like to give thanks to the leadership from Ted Janulis, the heart of Lesley Ewing, and the dedicated work of Lonnie Schorer!

For the boys, the journey to the championship was marked by resilience. After a tough 3-2 loss in 10 innings to Poquoson just last week, they staged a thrilling comeback, securing a 3-2 victory over Buckingham two days ago. Grit and determination define these young athletes, who also possess an explosive batting ability. They thrive under pressure and embody a never-give-up attitude. After falling behind 2-0 in the first inning at Buckingham, Cavalier ace Daniel Burton settled in, striking out 10 batters and allowing only one walk without letting the Knights score again. The Cavs (16-5) tied the game in the third inning when Stevie Walton drew a walk, and Timmy West reached base due to a throwing error, allowing Walton to advance to third. Walton ultimately came home on a ground-out by Brandon Seal, setting the stage for Grayson Reid to tie the game at 2-2 with a single that brought West across the plate. With momentum shifting in their favor, the Cavs took a 3-2 lead in the fifth inning thanks to a double by Jack Longest, sending Grayson Reid home after he had singled and stolen second. However, the Knights attempted a comeback, but Reid ended that with a spectacular diving catch for the final out. The Cavaliers will face the John S. Battle Trojans Friday at 10 am in the VHSL Class 2 semifinal, with the winner advancing to the state title game on Saturday. Meanwhile, the girls (20-2) demonstrated their dominance over the Page County Panthers, scoring first and maintaining their lead throughout the game. Entering the sixth inning up 2-1, they added three crucial insurance runs on Addie Kirby's bases-loaded double, ultimately winning 5-1. They will face a familiar opponent, the Appomattox Raiders, on Friday at 12:30 pm. These two teams met last year in the semifinals. The winner will earn a spot in the state championship game on Saturday. The King William Cavaliers are poised for greatness, chasing two state titles. As they step onto the fields Friday and, hopefully, Saturday, they carry the hopes and pride of the entire King William community. These young athletes have exemplified skill, teamwork, and unwavering determination this season. Regardless of the outcome, the citizens of King William County will never forget these young men and women and BEAM WITH PRIDE at their achievements. GO CAVS!!
